FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

(Glassdharma.com, Ft. Bragg, CA) Mounting concerns about the problems surrounding plastics usage has inspired one man from Fort Bragg to manufacture and market his own line of Glass Drinking Straws. Saving our landfills and oceans from overflowing plastic waste coupled with health concerns about toxins from plastics leaching into our food supply spurred David Leonhardt's mission to "Save the planet – 1 straw at a time"

His vision is to reduce the amount of plastic waste in our planet and inspire others to do the same with simple, cost effective methods. "Working together, there is no reason that we cannot completely eliminate single use plastics." says David "It's simply a matter of how we think about the things in our lives – and we can always choose to change how we think."

What excites him the most is that these glass straws not only contribute to health and the environment, but that they do it with beauty and style. His passion to provide quality workmanship inspired him to include a manufacturer's lifetime guarantee against breakage.
